
Report generation is the artifact under study; perception, analysis and alert components are held fixed and are not evaluated here.

The experience-replay loop that closes through the store, and the three coordination failure modes it contains, are shown separately in Figure 2.